HANSA2DAY makes a splash in the bathroom

NORCROSS, Ga. (April 2009) - A tilt function in the new HANSA2DAY shower head allows for the choice between a waterfall and an active spray making for daily showering pleasure. The cool-elegant, white, vessel-shaped head of the HANSA2DAY brings a completely new look into every bathroom.

“The HANSA2DAY makes showering a personalized and invigorating experience,” says Darryl Jones, Divisional Sales Manager of Hansa and KWC AMERICA. “Whether it’s invigorating, stimulating or a relaxing wellness shower, the HANSA2DAY complements any personal style.”

When the shower head is positioned horizontally, the water exits as a needle spray from the underside of the tray. When the head is tilted forwards, the HANSA2DAY converts to a surge spray with the water raining down from the tray and gently enveloping the body.

Along with its outstanding function, the HANSA2DAY also showcases superior design elements. Positioned like an island in the center of the tray, the jets add an extravagance to any bathroom and the gently curved and smooth handle underlines the elegance of the shower head. The HANSA2DAY is currently available in white with chrome accents.

The HANSA2DAY is available as a single hand shower or as part of an entire bathroom collection, complete with a hand shower holder and a matching HANSASILVER JET shower hose.
